

course/prep

cuisine/chinese

effort/easy

form/sauce

profile/savoury

profile/sweet

technique/no-cook

Cha Siu Sauce

Yield: enough for 2–3 lb of meat (chicken or pork) · Active 5 min · Total 5 min

Ingredients

Ingredient	Amount
Red yeast rice	1 tablespoon
Chinese five spice (ngũ vị hương)	1 tsp
Light soy sauce	¼ cup
Rice wine	¼ cup
Honey	¼ cup
Hoisin sauce	1 tablespoon
Oyster sauce	1 tablespoon
Sesame oil	1 tablespoon
Garlic	2–3 cloves

Procedure

1. Crush garlic or mince finely.
2. Grind red yeast rice into a powder.
3. Mix all ingredients together.
4. Taste and adjust — see Notes.

Notes

- Good for 2–3 lb of meat; chicken or pork both work well with this marinade.

- Taste the sauce before it goes on the meat. It should be salty and slightly sweet, but fragrant above all. Adjust with salt and sugar as needed — soy sauces and oyster sauces vary a lot by brand, so the same measured amounts do not land in the same place twice.
- To use sugar instead of honey: $\frac{1}{3}$ cup granulated sugar plus $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water in place of the $\frac{1}{4}$ cup honey. The sugar version is thinner than the honey one and will not glaze quite as heavily.