Galbi (Korean BBQ Short Ribs)

Yield: 5 servings · Active 25 min · Total 7¼–12¼ h (marinating dominates)

Ask the butcher for "Korean-style" or "flanken-cut" short ribs — beef chuck ribs cross-cut about $\frac{1}{3}$ – $\frac{1}{2}$ inch thick across the bones, so each slice shows several bone cross-sections. The thin cross-cut is what lets the marinade reach the meat and lets the ribs cook through in a few minutes a side.

Ingredients

Ingredient	Amount
Soy sauce	$\frac{3}{4}$ cup
Water	$\frac{3}{4}$ cup
White vinegar	3 tbsp
Sesame oil	2 tbsp
Onion, minced	$\frac{1}{2}$ large
Garlic, minced	$\frac{1}{4}$ cup
Dark brown sugar	$\frac{1}{4}$ cup
White sugar	2 tbsp
Black pepper	1 tbsp
Korean-style short ribs (beef chuck flanken, cut $\frac{1}{3}$ – $\frac{1}{2}$ inch thick across the bones)	3 lb (1.36 kg)

Procedure

1. Whisk the soy sauce, water, vinegar, and sesame oil together in a large, non-metallic bowl.
2. Whisk in the onion, garlic, brown sugar, white sugar, and black pepper until the sugars dissolve.

3. Submerge the ribs in the marinade. Cover and refrigerate 7–12 hours — the longer, the better.
4. Preheat an outdoor grill to medium-high heat.
5. Remove the ribs from the marinade and shake off the excess; discard the marinade.
6. Grill until the meat is no longer pink, 5–7 minutes per side.

Notes

- Adapted from Allrecipes, "Korean BBQ Short Ribs \(Gal-Bi\)".
- On the marinating range: 7 hours is the practical minimum, and the source recommends going longer without saying what the short end costs. Treat the far end as the target and the near end as the fallback when the day gets away from you.
- "Medium-high" is the only heat the source gives — no grill temperature is specified.
